About AG&P

Atlantic Gulf & Pacific Company of Manila (AG&P) was founded 116 years ago as a traditional fabrication and heavy assembly yard, and successfully lead the modularization of assets for the world's largest infrastructure projects. AG&P's experience includes delivering E-houses for the Ichthys LNG project in Darwin, Australia; construction of the world's first modularized complex coker unit for BP Whiting Refinery in Indiana, USA; and more recently, the first Floating Regasification Unit (FRU) for the port at Bali-Benoa, Indonesia. Recently, AG&P has been at the forefront of pioneering small- and mid-scale LNG infrastructure solutions for the rapidly growing gas sector.

AG&P will focus on LNG import terminals and the supply chains that emanate from them. Building, funding and profitably operating LNG assets is the final barrier to opening the LNG market to multiple players. To enable customers to overcome this barrier, AG&P's expanded offering includes financing, commercially managing and maintaining all the integrated assets across the LNG supply chain. Providing flexibility and economic value, AG&P acts as a nerve-center for LNG distribution. Further information can be found on the AG&P website at www.agp.ph
