AG&P positioning PH as regional hub

By: Ronnel W. Domingo · @inquirerdotnet | Philippine Daily Inquirer / 05:10 AM January 27, 2018

Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific Co. (AG&P) is pushing to establish the Philippines as a regional hub of construction for infrastructure related to liquefied natural gas with Asia emerging as a major driver of growth in the global LNG market.

In light of this, AG&P yesterday said it was developing integrated LNG-fired gas-to-power opportunities across South Asia, the Americas and Africa, where the components will be built modularly in its facilities in Batangas.

Established in 1900, the homegrown firm believes that the modular construction for these projects — and their ongoing operations and maintenance—will bring significant benefits to the Philippines through local employment, logistics management, yard expansion and management support.
